

The Social Life of the Lion

The Social Life of the Lion

A study of the behaviour of wild lions (Panthera leo massaica [Newmann]) in the Nairobi
National Park, Kenya

Judith A. Rudnai

WASHINGTON SQUARE EAST, PUBLISHERS
Wallingford, Pennsylvania 1973

Published in U.K. by MTP
Medical and Technical Publishing Co Ltd
St. Leonards House, St. Leonardgate
Lancaster England

Published in USA by Washington Square
East, Publishers
Wallingford, Pennsylvania, USA

Copyright © Judith A. Rudnai
Softcover reprint of the hardcover 1st edition 1973

This book, or parts thereof, may not be reproduced in any form without permission,
except for short extracts for review purposes

ISBN-13: 978-94-011-7142-7      e-ISBN-13: 978-94-011-7140-3
DOI: 10.1007/978-94-011-7140-3

Contents

|                                                         |    |
|---------------------------------------------------------|----|
| I INTRODUCTION                                          | I  |
| The Habitat                                             | I  |
| History and physical features of Nairobi National Park  | I  |
| The animal population                                   | 3  |
| Aims and scope of this study                            | 3  |
| Methods and procedures                                  | 4  |
| Identification method                                   | 5  |
| Ageing                                                  | 6  |
| The lion. Description and distribution                  | 6  |
| II POPULATION STRUCTURE AND RANGES                      | II |
| Population size, composition and density                | II |
| The prides: composition and changes throughout the year | 12 |
| Home ranges                                             | 15 |
| Day range utilization                                   | 20 |
| Habitat preferences                                     | 21 |
| III ACTIVITY PATTERNS                                   | 24 |
| Daily activity cycles                                   | 24 |
| Daytime activities                                      | 24 |
| Activity pattern of females                             | 25 |
| Activity pattern of male                                | 27 |
| Cubs' activity pattern                                  | 28 |
| Resting positions; degrees of alertness                 | 29 |
| Night activities                                        | 30 |
| Distances covered by night                              | 30 |
| Range utilization by night                              | 33 |
| IV INDIVIDUAL ACTIVITIES                                | 34 |
| Locomotion                                              | 34 |
| Speed                                                   | 34 |
| Pattern of walking                                      | 35 |
| Tree climbing                                           | 37 |
| Health and self-care                                    | 37 |
| Injuries, diseases and parasites                 | 37 |
| Body functions                                   | 38 |
| Self-care and comfort activities                 | 39 |

|      |                                                                                            |     |
|------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| V    | SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR                                                                           | 44  |
|      | Group life; synchronized activities                                                        | 44  |
|      | Amicable behaviour                                                                         | 46  |
|      | Mutual grooming                                                                     | 46  |
|      | Greeting (headrubbing)                                                              | 48  |
|      | Agonistic behaviour                                                                        | 49  |
|      | Threat and intimidation displays                                                    | 49  |
|      | Defence; submission                                                                 | 51  |
|      | Intragroup relationships; social bonds, individual associations,rank order, leadership | 52  |
|      | Communication: vocalization and marking                                                    | 55  |
|      | Intergroup relationships; meeting of prides                                                | 60  |
| VI   | REPRODUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT                                                               | 62  |
|      | Sexual behaviour; courtship and mating                                                     | 62  |
|      | Gestation period, litter size, cub mortality                                               | 67  |
|      | Physical development and care of young                                                     | 69  |
|      | Feeding and grooming of cubs                                                               | 70  |
|      | Protection of cubs                                                                         | 71  |
|      | Vocal communication between mother and cub                                                 | 72  |
|      | Play and the development of behaviour patterns and socialinteractions                  | 72  |
|      | Development of sexual dimorphism and independence                                          | 75  |
| VII  | PREDATION                                                                                  | 77  |
|      | Predation patterns                                                                         | 77  |
|      | The prey animals; numbers, density                                                  | 77  |
|      | Prey-predator ratios                                                                | 78  |
|      | Prey selection (based on carcase analysis)                                          | 80  |
|      | Habitat as a factor in prey selection                                               | 84  |
|      | Hunting methods and feeding behaviour                                                      | 85  |
|      | Searching                                                                           | 85  |
|      | Preference ratio based on stalks                                                    | 87  |
|      | Attacking and killing                                                               | 89  |
|      | Feeding                                                                             | 91  |
|      | Consumption; kill frequency                                                         | 94  |
|      | Drinking                                                                            | 96  |
|      | Hunting success                                                                     | 97  |
| VIII | REACTION TO ENVIRONMENT                                                                    | 98  |
|      | Reaction to humans and vehicles                                                            | 98  |
|      | Interaction with other species                                                             | 99  |
|      | Response to weather                                                                        | 102 |
| IX   | DISCUSSION AND EPILOGUE                                                                    | 103 |
|      | APPENDICES                                                                                 | 107 |
|      | REFERENCES                                                                                 | 114 |
|      | ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS                                                                           | 118 |
|      | INDEX                                                                                      | 119 |